Q. 1 Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow: -

Paddle Ducks:-

Paddle ducks are typically birds of fresh, shallow marshes and rivers rather than on large lakes and bays. They are good divers but usually feed by dabbling or tipping rather than submerging. The colored wing spot is generally bright and often has a significant field mark. Any duck feeding in croplands, will likely be a puddle duck as most of this group are sure footed and can walk and run on land. Their diet is mostly vegetable and grain-fed (mallards) birds.

Pintail:-

These ducks use all four flyways but are most plentiful in the west. They are extremely graceful and fast fliers, fond of zig-zagging from great heights before leveling off to land. The long neck and tail make them appear longer than mallards, but in body size and weight they are smaller. They are agile on land and often feed in grain fields.

Wood Duck:-

Found in all flyways; most numerous in the Atlantic and Mississippi flyways and fewest in the Central. They are early migrants; most of them have left the northern States by mid- November. They fly through thick Timber with speed and often feed on acorns, berries and grapes on the forest floors. Flight is swift and direct; flocks are usually small. In the air, their wings make a rustling and swishing sound.

Snow Geese:-

Two races of snow geese are recognized. They are found in huge number along the Atlantic Coast as compared to elsewhere in the continent. Blue Geese are the color phase of the lesser snow.

Now, answer the following questions:-

1. How do Paddle Ducks feed themselves?
2. Describe the Pintail.
3. Where are the Wood Ducks found?
4. "Two races of snow geese are recognized" Find the Subject in this sentence.
